NO BRIDGE STATION AT TILLARY-ST. THE TRUSTEES DECIDE TO CONTINUE WORK UNDER THE OLD PLANS, WITH THE STATION AT HIGH-ST.

The Bridge Trustees took definite action yesterday in the matter of the much-discussed terminal facilities at the Brooklyn end of the Bridge. It usly decided to resume work under the plans adopted last winter. Work under these plans was stopped last fall, when General Barnes began an agitation for improved facilities. This action ends the efforts to carry the Bridge station to Tillary-st., with an enormous expenditure of money, and fixes it at High-st., where the station will extend to Sands-st., and front on the open plaza which extends to Fulton-st. There were six trustees present at yesterday's meeting for February; only the Mayor and Controller of New-York being absent. The Terminal Committee, through Trustee Skinner, reported the resolution that work be resumed on the Brooklyn terminal station, under the plans adopted in February, 1893, and that the engineer be instructed to proceed with all possible expedition with the work.

Controller Corwin asked President Howell if he still held that the Tiliary-st, station would not cost more than $2,500,000, and that it could be completed in two years. Mr. Howell said he did. "How, then, could it be paid for from the sur-plus receipts of the Bridge?" asked the Controller. we could issue certificates of indebtedness if the Legislature authorized it," replied Mr. How-Mayor Schleren was asked for his views, and "The natural ending of the Bridge is where id: "The natural ending of the Bridge is water e foot passengers and carriages leave it, at inds-st., and any further extension is only for liroad purposes. The plans have been made and ntracts given for the station between Sands and igh sis. The city at present needs all possible come for regular expenses, and the surplus Bridge ceipts cannot be afforded for extending railroad cilities. The citizens are forcibly not in favor of e Tillary-st. station. From all these considera-tions I deem it wise to go on with the original aris."

the Tiliary-st. station. From all these considerations I deem it wise to go on with the original plans."

The motion was adopted without any opposing votes, but Controller Corwin wished to be recorded as not voting. Resolutions were adopted calling for pids for the work of grading and paving Liberty-st., and for paving the roaway at the New-York terminus. The City Works Department of Brooklyn was asked to put in water and sewer pipes in the new part of Liberty-st. for the convenience of residents there, and to set lamp-posts. A report was made by Superintendent Martin in regard to the comparative cost of lighting the cars with oil or gas. Two cars have been fitted up with the Pintsch gas system and run for a month. Mr. Martin said that to light all the cars run at night for a year with gas would cost $5.53.50, and with oil by the present system it cost $5.783, a difference in favor of the latter of $5.540. The chief expense would be the interest on the cost of equipment. A report was read which Trustee Skinner, who is a railroad man, had prepared, showing that the cost of lighting by oil was twenty-four times as great as with the Pintsch gas on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western road, and much greater on the West Shore and Erie roads. President Howell said the present system provided a poor and dull light and that the Pintsch system was much superior. Mr. Skinner said that it would probably be cheaper to light the cars with tailow dips than any other way, but the Bridge cars should be well lighted. The present system was abommable, and the best system should be adopted. All the chief railroads of the country had substituted gas or electricity for oil. The Broadway cars had the Pintsch system, and it was satisfactory. The matter was laid over a month.

JUDGE CULLEN RESERVES HIS DECISION ARGUMENT ON THE MOTION FOR A MANDAMUS TO COMPEL THE SUPERVISORS TO EX-

PUNGE THE RECORDS OF THE MON-DAY PROCEEDINGS FROM THE

MINUTES. Owing to the lack of a quorum, the Board of Supervisors failed to meet yesterday, and adjourn ment was taken until Friday afternoon. Supervisors Donovan and Enderlin were absent when Supervisor Dike, the temporary clerk, called the roll. They appeared a little later and said that business had de tained them. The clerk, Farrell, was present and said he was ready to proceed with the business and the board, but the Supervisor-at-Large, Mr. Fitchie ignored him.

The argument was heard by Judge Cullen yes day in the Supreme Court upon the motion for a mandamus to compel the Supervisor-at-Large and the Board of Supervisors to expunge from the minutes the proceedings taken by the Republican majority last Monday. John H. Kemble, for Supervisor McKeown (Dem.), argued that the board had no right to seat Frederick Linde (Rep.) as Supervisor of the Eighth Ward, and without his vote there would not have been a quorum. George F. Elliott, counsel of the board, held that the court could not order the expunging of the minutes, and that Linde had been properly chosen, and had a right to sit in the board.

Judge Cullen told counsel that they had overlooked day in the Supreme Court upon the motion for a Linde had been properly chosen, and had a right to sit in the board.

Judge Cullen told counsel that they had overlooked the principal point. It was clear that if Kehoe had not resigned on December 39 his term would have continued until his successor had been elected by the people. The only question was: "Did the death or resignation of a holdover create a vacancy which can be filled by appointment of the Common Council?" On this Judge Cullen reserved decision.

The General Term heard argument yesterday on the appeal from the decision of Judge Cullen, which seated Supervisor Ryder in place of R. L. Barsley, of the town of Flatlands, in the board. James C. Church held that the term for which Barsley was was elected was for two years under the laws of 1894 George F. Elliott argued that the law of 1892 limited the terms of Supervisors of the towns to one year. Decision was reserved.

A BOY SHOOTS HIS YOUNG COMPANION. Joseph Marinhoff, sixteen years old, of No. 173 Mckibbin-st., was shot in the mouth with a Flobert rifle by "Frenchy" Gruler, a boy of his own age, in the Jewish cemetery at Woodhaven on Sun-day, and is now in a serious condition at his home. shooting, according to young Marinhoff, was a deliberate attempt of Gruler to assassinate him. He says he was enticed into the cemetery by Gruler, away from some companions. Pointing to a grave, Gruler had told him that he was going to dle and would be buried in the grave. Young Gruler then raised the rifle, the wounded boy declares, and fired the bullet, striking him in the mouth and lodging in the left side of the neck. Several teeth were knocked out, and a piece of his tongue was cut off. Marinhoff ran from the cemetery, bleeding from the mouth. He was met by John Schuman, Frank Bohn and William Bernhardt, the companions whom he had left a few minutes before. Gruler was a few feet behind him, still holding the smoking rifle. He declared that the shooting had been accidental.

"If any of you say a word about this," exclaimed Gruler, "I will do the same thing to you, too."

Gruler then disappeared, and the wounded boy was taken to a near-by drug store, and later to St. John's Hospital, East New-York, where the bullet was extracted. He was then removed to his home. deliberate attempt of Gruler to assassinate him.

TO OPPOSE THE PROBATE OF THE WILL. The relatives of Father Corrigan, who are con testing his will, announced yesterday that they would oppose the probate of the will. They said that they preferred to have the property go to the Church of Our Lady of Grace, in Hoboken, than Church of Our Lady of Grace, in Hoboken, than to have it divided in accordance with the latest will made by Father Corrigan. As a matter of fact, it is doubtful if there is any other will.

The story given out last week said that Father Pitzgerald had found the old will. Father Sheehan, the administrator, says that as he has all Father Corrigan's papers, and took charge of them immediately upon Father Corrigan's death, he does not see how any one except himself could have found the old will. He knows nothing about it, save what he has read in the newspapers. Counsellor Young, who is employed by the contestants admits that there is another will, though he does not know who has it.

The speaker argued that there is a fash-lon in crime as much as in dress, furniture or art, and that the increasing tendency toward deeds of violence by persons of unsound mind should be seriously considered. He defined the various kinds of insanity, and preposed that the "crank" should be locked up. He said: "It seems to me that every case of chronic insanity should be arrested and held for a judicial inquiry into the mental condition. This would be the first step toward a most humane protection, both of the lumate and of the community, and it would be a large improvement upon the present happy-go-lucky belief regarding these cases as harmless. There can seldem be a hardship in any law of this kind, harsh as it may seem at first sight, because these cases are generally insane for a long time, if not for life, and any one familiar with our courts of justice knows that the final discharge will not be difficult if the patient has became sane."

AGAINST THE WILSON BILL.

NEW-ENGLAND MANUFACTURERS HAVE SOME-THING TO SAY WHICH WILL BE OF IN-TEREST TO WORKINGMEN.

"The New-York World" published a number of signed statements from manufacturers yesterday. Its object was to get expressions of opinion favorable to the prompt passage of the Wilson bill. But some of these statements were not of a nature to phase Mr. Wilson's followers. For instance, C. M. Weld, of Boston, cotton manufacturer, remarked: 'Wages must come down. The only direction in which we can economize is to reduce the price of labor." In another part of his statement Mr. Weld wrote: "The Wilson Tariff bill has already reduced wages 10 to 15 per cent, and, in my opinion after it really becomes a law a further and more decided reduction will take place." Mr. Weld looks upon the Wilson bill as special sectional legislation intended to favor the South at the expense of the

In referring to the effect of the McKinley bill on wages Mr. Weld declares that "wages under the McKinley bill increased 15 per cent." He adds: "I speak advisedly of its effect throughout New-England. My own company granted a raise of 19 per cent at first, and afterward an additional raise of 5 per cent. After the election of Cleveland, and the consequent uncertainty, our orders fell off. We got few contracts." Later in his statement Mr. Weld writes with truth and force: "Times are never good in this country under a low scale of wages.' J. Howard Nichols, another well-known New-England cotton manufacturer, criticises the Wilson bill, and says: "If we find that under the Wilson bill we cannot compete with importations, our attention would naturally first be turned toward reducing wages, or the price of labor. It will come to that if sufficient protection is not given."

N. W. Kimball, a New-England manufacturer of shoes, writes to "The World": "I believe that in the future the price of labor is going to rule lower.

As much money in gross will not be paid for labor. Wages have been tending downward. They are not as high now as they were six years ago."

Rufus F. Greeley, manufacturer of woollens, writes as follows:

"The woollen goods industry is already anticipating the effect of the operation of this bill, and, as a result, many woollen mills are closed, many are running on short time, only a very few on full time, and those that are running at all are on reduced pay-rolls or are contemplating reducing. Manufacturers' agents and clothing dealers are doing much less business than usual, and sooner or later they also must reduce their pay-rolls.

"Beyond all this is the great shrinkage in values England cotton manufacturer, criticises the Wil-later they also must reduce their pay-rolls. Beyond all this is the great shrinkage in values of clothing, cloths, wool and all other materials that enter into the making of clothing, as well as the shrinkage of value of all woollen mills and machinery. The loss to this country is beyond calculation, and it is all because we are preparing to meet the actual operation of the Wilson bill. "We have reason to believe that on December 2 the country will be flooded with foreign goods, and to meet this competition American mills must make further and larger reductions in pay-rolls or be wheel out."

make further and larger reductions in pay-rois or be wined out."

Armour & Co., of Chicago, say: "From the present outlook we regard the Wilson bill as indirectly detrimental to our business. We are now doing a larger exporting business than ever before, and it will probably not affect this department of our trade. It is the general effect of the law on the home markets that will be felt by Armour & Co. in common with other commercial enterprises. If the result of the law be the continuation of the present stagnation in business, the purchasing power of the country is restricted and the home market is inactive. We are selling meats in all parts of the world, and we do not expect the Wilson bill to either hamper or boom our exports."

The boxing tournament of the Columbia Athletic Club was continued last night at the Grand Central Palace. Another large crowd was present. The contests were held without the consent of the Ama-teur Athletic Union, and the chances are that all the athletes will be disqualified, and the Columbia A. C. expelled from the Union. Certain A. A. U. and New-York Athletic Club men are interested in the tournament, and they, too, may get them-selves into trouble. Robert Conn, the president of the Columbia A. C., called upon James E. Sul-livan, president of the Metropolitan Association of he A. A. U., yesterday afternoon, and he asked for permit to give the show last night. ME. STODDARD IN THE HEART OF JAPAN.

HIS SECOND ILLUSTRATED LECTURE AT DALY'S THEATRE.

The second lecture of John L. Stoddard's course was given for the first time at Daly's Theatre yesterday morning. The subject was "The Heart of Old Japan." It was decidedly more interesting than the first lecture. It treated more of the interior of the country, of the life of the people and of the things that have yielded least to European cluence. The lecture began with a number views of natural scenery and some description and llustration of the discomforts of travel in a kago, a illustration of the discomforts of travel in a kago, a kind of swinging basket hung on a pole and carried by two men. A few views of Fujlyama, the sacred mountain, were shown. There is more of the sacred mountain, were shown. There is more of the sacred mountain, were shown. There is more of the sacred mountain, were shown. There is more of the sacred mountain, and majesty about this than about any other natural scenery of the country, and to one who knows Japan only through pictures it seems remarkable that Mr. Stoddard should have got through one whole lecture on the country without once showing it. It is likely, however, that it does not figure so pervasively in photographs as in drawings. This seems a reasonable supposition when it is considered that some Japanese artists make it a rule never to make a picture without introducing this mountain.

The pictures which Mr. Stoddard presented of Japanese life, dress, coffure, medicine, servants, tattooing, house-furnishing, amusements, etc., were all most interesting, and often amusing. He ended his lecture with a short account of Haruna and its chimes. The lecture will, of course, be repeated chimes. The lecture will, of course, be repeated can'd ay this week, at 3 p. m. to-day and on Friday, and at 11 a. m. on the other days. The subject of next week's lecture will be "China."

FIVE HOUSES BURNED AT TUCKAHOE. That part known as Hillside on the heights imdlately adjacent to Tuckahoe Station on the channey M. Depew Harlem Railroad was visited by a destructive fire yesterday afternoon. It was not got under control until five dwellings had been burned to the ground, resulting in the loss of about $25,000, on which there was an insurance of about $25,000. The fire started shortly after 1:30 p. m., in the dwelling of William Lloyd, and attacked in turn the homes of George Corson, Charles Beers, Charles Wygant and Amos Brown, all New-York business men. The village was not equipped with a fire department, and aid was telegraphed for to White Plains, and Mount Vernon. The Independent Engine Company and Union Hook and Ladder Company, of White Plains, and the Protection Engine Company, of Mount Vernon, responded, and kept the flames from spreading. The bulk of the furniture in the dwellings was saved. The fire resulted from a defective flue.

The Alps brought as passenger United States Marshal Henry, who went to Hayti to bring back a man named Huntington, who was charged with having embezzled $20,000 in Cleveland, Ohio. After much urging, Huntington consented to return to the United States voluntarily. On the day he was to have gone abourd the ship he died, and Mr. Henry, instead of bringing the man back a prisoner, attended his funeral, and, in the absence of a Protestant clergyman, read the burial service over

EASTERN INVESTORS SWINDLED

Chicago, Feb. 12 .- A dispatch to "The Herald" from Sioux City, Iowa, says: "It has just come to the surface that a land swindle of large proportions was worked on Eastern investors during the palmy days of Sloux City's boom, and up' to the present time the victims have kept still about it. The swindlers bought a large farm just east of the city, where land is not expensive, and platted it into small lots, which were deeded to various persons in the deal. Mortgages were given for payment in sums nearly as large as the alleged sale price of the lots, and the manager, who these evidences of sale, went eastward in search of investors. He borrowed money, giving his notes and putting up mortgages as security. In this way he raised from $200 to $400 on each lot, and secured thousands of dolars from eager capitalists who were after big interests. Holders of some of these notes and mortgages recently wrote to a leading lawyer to begin foreclosure proceedings, and an investigation revealed the fact that the lots were not worth what it would cost to secure them by a foreclosure. The holders then ordered the lawyers to carry the matter before the Grand Jury, and evidence is now being prepared." time the victims have kept still about it.
